

Niaz Jalal*Global Head Digital Health Platforms, Genentech Inc.

Niaz Jalal is the Global Head of Digital Health Platforms for Personalized Healthcare, Product Development at Genentech/Roche. He brings nearly 20 years of experience managing product development and shipping of consumer and enterprise products across consumer devices to end-to-end solutions throughout the product life-cycle, focusing on quality, validation, scale, and successful launch. Most recently he was the Head of Human Understanding & Virtual Humans at Facebook, responsible for driving the productization of virtual humans for Virtual Reality (Oculus) and Augmented Reality platforms. He joined Facebook in early 2017 with the acquisition of KLOOG, a digital health, wearable & IoT devices and cloud analytics company he founded. Niaz holds a BS in Computer Engineering from San Jose State University and an Executive MBA from Saint Mary's College of California.